firm of Woodhull, Claffin & Co. is right enough to question. Their first appearance in financial circles was some four or five weeks since, when a handsome livery establishment drove up in front of Henry Clews & Co.'s banking house, and from which a female alighted and entered inquiry for Mr. Clews. She was in the neighborhood of twenty-five, dressed in the height of fashion, captivating in her appearance, and pleasing in her address. Mr. Clews made his appearance. "This is Mr. Henry Clews," inquired the lady, smiling sweetly on the incorrigible bachelor, who blushed clear to the top of his head. JESSE GRANT REAPPOINTED FORTMAS-TER.—The President's nomination to the Senate to-day of his own father, Jesse R. On Monday evening last, February 7th, On Monday evening last, February 7th, a dispute and quarrel arose in a saloon on Fifth street, kept by John D. Roberts and a man by the name of Briggs. A young man, an employee of the P. C. & St. L. Railway, named Barney Kennedy, went into the saloon and called for a drink. After getting it he informed the saloon keepers that he would settle with them some other time, whereupon Roberts remarked that they did not do business in that way. One word brought on another and in a Suffrage Amendment came to a vote year terday in the Senate, but it was not adopted. Five votes were cast for it and 14 against. The announcement of the result, however, was suspended, and the Colonel is not without hope that fie will yet bring a majority of the Senators to its support. He has hopes of the three Senators who were absent, and does not despair of several who voted against it, as they manifest signs of repentance and a disposition to change their votes.
